

GAVE AWAY HIS COMRADES

Hockin is Identified by Four Witnesses at the Indianapolis Trial.

Indianapolis, October 25.—Herbert H. Hockin, a defendant in the dynamite conspiracy trial who succeeded John J. McNamara, the dynamiter as secretary of the Iron Workers Union, was identified by four witnesses today as having given information to the government against his forty-three fellow defendants.

Walter Drew, New York counsel for the National Erectors' Association testified that Hockin had said:

"I know they've got me but I don't want to be the only one."

The witness said that in the course of the sessions last winter of the federal grand jury, which returned the indictments, Hockin offered to give information, but was turned away with the remark:

"Go to the District Attorney and make a clean breast of it. He is the only person with authority to make promises."

"Hockin came to me several times and told me my life was in danger"

MORTGAGE WILL BE BURNED

An Interesting Program Has Been Arranged for the Same.

The Young Men's Christian Association invite the men and women of Portsmouth to be present at the burning of the mortgage on Monday evening, Oct. 28, at 8 o'clock, in Association hall.

An interesting program has been arranged, brief addresses will be made by Mr. John W. Kelley, Esq., and Lieut. Edward W. Hearne of Boston.

Following the exercises the High school boys will serve refreshments.

EARLY MORNING FIRE.

Lime Starts Lively Blaze in the Rear of the Store of John G. Parsons.

An alarm from box 53 about 5 o'clock this morning called the fire department to the store of John G. Parsons at the corner of Congress and Fleet streets where a blaze was in good progress in the rear of the building. The fire started from lime that had been stored under the rear of the store where contractors are putting in a foundation. The heavy rain flooded the cellar space and finally reached the lime. A brick bulkhead under the store prevented the fire from doing more damage. The goods of Mr. Parsons that were exposed in the store suffered considerably from smoke. The steam whistle of the alarm on the electric light plant refused to work properly and that part of the alarm came in bad. The trouble was due to a new valve in the feed line.

MEMORIAL SERVICES.

Citizens of Eliot Hold Exercises Commemorative to the Late Gov. John F. Hill.

In memory of the late Gov. John F. Hill of Maine a very touching memorial service was held at Eliot on Friday evening at which nearly a hundred citizens of that town took part. The exercises took place in the Grange hall at which Judge Aaron B. Cole presided. Ex-Governor W. T. Cobb of Rockland delivered the memorial address. A double quartet composed of Dr. Durgin, Fred Wilson, Howard Libby, A. W. Nowell, Mrs. Durgin, Miss Jessie Rideout, Mrs. Cyrus Bartlett and Miss May Ives rendered appropriate selections. The tablet presented by the town was on exhibition and will be erected on the birthplace of the late governor.

Mrs. Roland Knight of Waltham Mass., is the guest of William T. Davis and family.

WORLD'S MOST FAMOUS TRAMP

Visits the City on Friday--Author of Books to Keep Boys from Being Tramps.

The Herald had an interesting visitor on Saturday when A. No. 1, the world's most famous tramp, visited the office and for a short time told many interesting events in his career. Crossing his 500,031st mile since 1883, when he was first seized by the wanderlust, A. No. 1, the world's most famous tramp, spent Friday night in this city and left early Saturday morning for the navy yard.

A No. 1 is a tramp, and yet he has a mission in the world. He is trying to keep boys from becoming tramps. He has been successful in that mission in no small degree. He ran away from home to escape a whipping and gives an interesting story of his life.

He has hoboed since 1883, 500,031 miles and has spent only $7.61 on railroad fare.

He has been around the world three times. He is a linguist, speaking and writing four languages. He has prevented more than twenty wrecks, wears a $40 suit of clothes and a gold watch, keeps his name a secret, does not chew, smoke, drink, nor gamble. A tramp gave him his name in 1883.

"Kid, you are all right," declared the older one, at the end of a particularly hard journey; "you are A. No. 1." The title has stuck and the wanderer has more than lived up to it, for if ever a hobo's life could be said to be a success, it is that of this man. He travels in overalls and jumper, but after arriving in a town divests himself of these and appears in a neat suit; is always clean shaved, and has a very prosperous appearance.

He has a memorandum book full of cards and letters given him by railroad officials. Many of these state that he has prevented the possible loss of human life and property by telling train operators when hearing his way of broken ear wheels or other disarrangements and thus has prevented serious wrecks and disasters. He has been in five wrecks but luckily has never been hurt.

He also has an autograph letter from Jack London, the author, telling of their companionship on the road together in 1894.

During his travels, A. No. 1 has learned four languages, English, German, French and Spanish. His parents were of the French and German nationalities, but he was born in San Francisco.

His toilet is complete, though it takes little room to carry it. It consists of a toothbrush, soap, comb and a few other necessities. Blacking and shining rags occupy a part of his pockets, also a pocket edition of Webster's Dictionary, a strange book for a tramp to carry.

There is something about the man, aside from the distinction which his remarkable career carries, that is strangely appealing. It is perhaps the humanity of the man, or the pathos that lies mutedly concealed in his life, that makes him so strangely attractive. Endowed with all the necessary qualities for success in life, he is yet homeless, friendless, nameless, by an element in his make-up which has gained mastery over all other impulses and motives, namely, the "wanderlust."

Crippled in his subtle power, impressed by its resistless influence, he is forced to lead a life, the barrenness of which he realizes and is condemned to roam ceaselessly all over the world without a destination in view, to be a nomad of civilization. He knows the yearnings of other men for home and friends, but the master yearning of all is to move on and by this he must be governed.

Whenever A. No. 1 meets a runaway boy upon his journey he gives him a talk that is almost certain to make the lad homesick, and is glad when A. No. 1 purchases him a ticket sending him home to his parents.

If the boy is already a confirmed wanderer, A. No. 1 teaches him his own motto: "Never associate with anyone in whose company you would be ashamed in broad open daylight to pass your mother's home."

He talked Friday night for an hour and a half with his instructive stories of the road and the solution of the "tramp" problem.

"About 350,000 minors run away from home annually," said A. No. 1. "Of this number over 35,000 become confirmed hoboes, 7,000 are crippled, 3,500 are killed and the rest can only stand the hardships of tramp life about 10 years, until they are in a poor house. So many mothers, if they only knew it, are the cause of many young men living the hobo life. If a regular grown-up tramp comes to the house and asks for a meal she turns him away and tells him to go to work for it, but when the young fellow comes along just starting out to be a tramp she takes him in, feeds him on the best she has, not realizing that within a few short years the same youngster will be an exact prototype of the burly tramp she has just turned away."

"Now, if she would only get his name from his and his address, and talk to him in a nice way about his home and mother, there would be a good chance that he would go back and it would be a help towards reforming a large number of the boys."

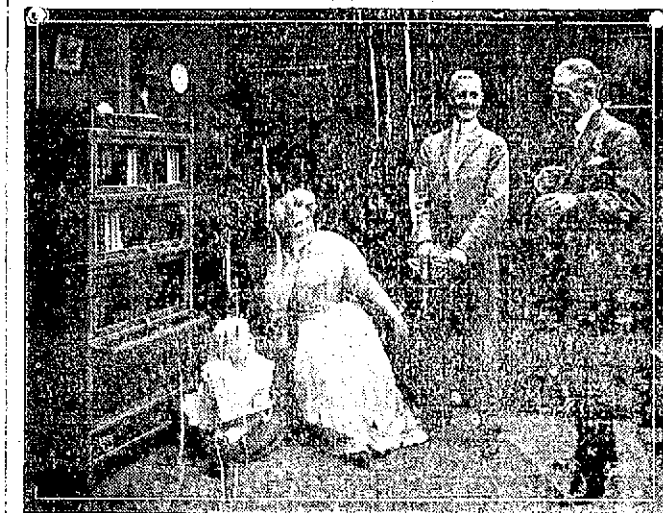

A. No. 1 makes his transient expenses by the sale of two books, the first being "Life and Adventures of A. No. 1," telling of his travels among tramps all over the world. The second, "Hobo Camp Fire Tales," is a true story of the pitiful hardships of the road. Both show the dark side of tramp life so that any restless boy will get a good idea of its disgusting features. They can be purchased in any bookstore and on every train for 25 cents and are worth every cent of it in keeping boys at home.

A. No. 1 has proofs in the shape of many letters of gratitude and numerous newspaper clippings mentioning names of men in all walks of life whom he has sent home in the past. He devotes nearly every cent of his revenue in sending boys back to their homes and future usefulness.

He was asked why he had not written his books sooner as they are illustrated and highly interesting stories and he stated, that lately, after twenty-nine years of roving, he had come to the conclusion that the dangerous, senseless and pitiful life he has led all these years have been wasted, and that perhaps by telling his own painful experiences he might prevent others from following his footsteps. He said that to force a boy to stay at home after he has once started to wander, is almost impossible, as the maxim, "once a tramp, always a tramp," has been proven to him by actual experience, as he has met many a boy of fine family and home who never knew of the filth, misery and dangers a tramp comes constantly in contact with, yet cannot resist the call to wander.

In 1894 he received $1,000 cash and a beautiful medal from the Puller Gazette for trampdom from New York to San Francisco in eleven days and six hours, and with $750 of this prize he bought a tomb in a cemetery in Cambridge Springs, Pa. The epitaph will be a silent everlasting warning to others who seem afflicted with this strange longing to roam, very aptly called "Wanderlust," and is simply:

WANT IT REMOVED.

Citizens of Manchester Name Committee to Prepare Resolution on 5th Amendment.

The whole resolution has been drafted by Rev. John J. Lyons, John B. Cavanaugh and John R. White of Manchester on behalf of the citizens relative to the Sixth Amendment to be voted on at the next election.

"Whereas, An amendment to article 6, of the bill of rights of New Hampshire, relative to the recent constitutional convention is about to be submitted to the voters of our state for their approval.

"And, Whereas said article 6, as it now stands is a proscription and un-American, restricting the foundation of piety and morality to evangelical principles, and recognizing protestants alone as its public teachers and exponents;

"And, Whereas said declaration is in direct opposition to the spirit and the letter of the constitution which proclaims that every individual has a natural and inalienable right to worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience and reason;

"Therefore be it resolved that we call upon the citizens of New Hampshire, irrespective of party affiliation or religious belief, to help in removing this blot upon the fair name of our commonwealth by endorsing at the polls the sixth resolution of our constitutional delegates, and thereby cause her to take her rightful place among the sister states as a defender of the principles of liberty, equality and justice upon which our republic is founded.

Finally be it resolved that a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the various newspapers throughout the state, with a respectful request for their publication.

BALLOT-MARKING PROBLEM.

Complications Likely When Same Name Is in Two Columns.

A point of election law has arisen in connection with the present campaign which, so far as is known, has not arisen before, but which will, without doubt, be a matter of controversy from now on. The point is, may a ballot be marked for the same candidate twice, once in the third-term column, and once in either of the two major party columns?

If a ballot is so marked, with a cross opposite the name of John Smith, Democrat, and another one opposite the name of the same John Smith third-term, what happens? Does John Smith get two votes, one vote or no vote at all? And if he gets one vote, in what capacity does he receive it?

This is no hypothetical question. It is one which will arise in the counting of hundreds, perhaps thousands of ballots. There are any number of candidates running this year who have double nominations. The party which favors a third term for the former president had endorsed primary nominees of the two regular parties in a hundred or more different cities and towns.

For instance, Raymond B. Stevens of Landaff, the nominee of both democratic and third-term parties in the second congressional district. But in his case the voter is plainly instructed to vote for only one candidate for congress. If the voter makes Stevens crosses in both columns, he is voting twice for the same office, and yet for only one candidate. Does that invalidate his ballot?

WHEN A LAXATIVE IS NEEDED--"CASCARETS"

Salts, Calomel and Cathartic Pills Acts on Bowels as Pepper Acts in Nostrils

Take a Cascaret tonight and thoroughly cleanse your liver, stomach and bowels and you will surely feel great by morning. You men and women who have headache, constipation, can't sleep, are bilious, nervous, and upset, bothered with a gassy, disordered stomach or a backache and feel all worn out.

Are you keeping your bowels clean with Cascarets or merely forcing a passageway every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil. This is important.

Cascarets immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, indigested and fermenting food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the corrupted waste matter and the poison from the intestines and bowels.

Remember, a Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning. A 10 cent box from your druggist means healthy bowel action; a clear head and cheerfulness for months. Don't forget the children.

Roger Bresnahan's Dismissal as Manager of St. Louis Cardinals Not Unexpected

ROGER BRESNAHAN
PHOTOS BY AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION

St. Louis, October 26.—The removal of Roger Bresnahan, as manager of the St. Louis National base ball team was not wholly unexpected in view of the numerous reports of the last year. It has aroused almost as much comment as the discharge of Frank Chance by Charles W. Murphy. Either of these men would be welcomed in several other cities. Bresnahan's record with the Cardinals compares very favorably with the achievements of numerous other managers who are considered fairly successful. While he had a poor season in 1912, he was gradually getting together a pretty good ball club, and he was always a strong road attraction. More than likely Miller Huggins, the Cardinals' second baseman, will be Bresnahan's successor. A year ago Bresnahan was signed by Stanley Robison to a four years' contract as playing man for a salary of $10,000. He was also to receive 10 per cent of the net profits. Bresnahan will demand settlement of

GROWS BEAUTIFUL, HEAVY HAIR WE PROVE IT--25 CENT "DANDERINE"

Destroys Dandruff--Stops Falling Hair--Cleans and Invigorates Your Scalp

To be possessed of a head of heavy, beautiful hair; soft, lustrous, fluffy, wavy and free from dandruff is merely a matter of using a little Danderine.

It is easy and inexpensive to have nice soft hair, and lots of it. Just get a 25 cent bottle of Danderine. Danderine now all drug stores recommend it--apply a little as directed and within ten minutes there will be an appearance of abundance; freshness, fluffiness, and an incomparable gloss and lustre, and try as you will you cannot find a trace of Danderine or falling hair; but your real surprise will be after about two weeks use, when you will see new hair--fine and downy at first--yes--but really new hair--sprouting out all over your scalp--Danderine is we believe, the only sure hair grower; destroyer of dandruff and cure for itchy scalp and it never fails to stop falling hair at once.

If you want to prove how pretty and soft your hair really is, moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair--taking one small strand at a time. Your hair will be soft, glossy and beautiful in just a few moments--a delightful surprise awaits everyone who uses this.

TURKS CLAIM TO BE IN COMMANDING POSITION

Large Body of Troops Guarding
Adrianople--Bulgarians Won First Battle.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 25.—Stories of desperate hand-to-hand fighting between the Bulgarians and the Turks are told in newspaper dispatches reaching here from Adrianople. Both armies lost heavily in the battles around that city on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Bayonets were used freely in the fight for the possession of the banks of the Tundja river and hundreds were killed and wounded.

Slight battalions of Bulgarian troops attacked the village of Maras yesterday, and were repulsed by the Turkish troops with heavy losses.

The Turks have 150,000 of their finest troops on the line stretching from Kirk-Kilissch to Adrianople, which latter city is garrisoned by another 60,000 men. Still another 60,000 men guard the line from Adrianople back to Lule Burgas.

Abdullah Pasha, the commander-in-chief of the Turkish forces, declared some time ago that the troops at his disposal were sufficient, and since then the great stream of fresh troops has been directed towards Saloniki.

Communication with Adrianople is still working normally and no serious attack on the defenses of that town is yet reported by the Turkish commander.

Fugitives from Kirk-Kilissch, most of them Christians, are being brought to Constantinople by train.

On the other side of the Peninsular Zekki Pasha, with an army of 30,000 Turks, is reported to have attacked the Serbian Army north of Kumanova, just as a large force of Bulgarians was about to effect a junction with it. The Serbians found the four divisions of their troops broken up and they fled in confusion back across the frontier, leaving a battery of artillery and a general's flag behind them. The Turks took many prisoners and found a large number of dead and wounded on the field.

Zekki Pasha then attacked the Bulgarians, whom he routed, driving them also back across the frontier with the loss of four of their field guns.

A dispatch from Uskup says that civilized Serbians who are able to leave that town are departing toward the south.

It is announced today that the foreign military attaches here are to be permitted to leave for the front tomorrow. The Ottoman Government has notified the various embassies that the reports of their military attaches should be made in French, and a sim-

KEPT POSSE AT BAY FOR HOURS

Winfred Glidden Shot Down Deputy Sheriff at Farmington.

FARMINGTON, Oct. 26.—There was considerable excitement here this afternoon when it was supposed that Winfred Glidden had shot his mother, and then shot Deputy Sheriff Pike who went to arrest him.

Glidden then barricaded his house and for some time kept a large posse at bay. He was however captured at five o'clock.

Glidden who is about 25 years of age lives with his mother and the "at" known of any trouble was at one o'clock Friday afternoon when a snail was heard in the house. It was thought that Glidden had shot his mother and Deputy Sheriff Pike was sent for.

When he approached the house

Glidden fired and a bullet took effect in his head and he dropped. He was rescued and is now being treated by physicians rushed to a Boston hospital. Glidden was armed with a rifle and desperate, so a posse surrounded the house and Sheriff Frank Smith sent for.

As nothing was seen of his mother it was taken for granted that she had been shot. At five o'clock Glidden disappeared from the windows and later the door was opened by his mother and the officers admitted and they found Glidden asleep. He had been drinking and getting tired of keeping watch fell asleep.

The affair attracted crowds for miles around. It appeared that Glidden shot at his mother but missed her.

Franklin Worcester and the Governorship.

It can be easily seen that the man who stands out supreme in the present triangular squabble for the governorship as a performer instead of a pretender is the Hon. Franklin Worcester of Hollis. Mr. Worcester has stood firm in defense of principle at a time when it meant certain defeat, and now that the principles for which he so courageously contended have become popular, if there was a suggestion of sincerity in the operations of those who pretend to be interested in reforms, they would be zealously supporting Mr. Worcester instead of carrying on a clandestine flirtation with the democrats. Winston Churchill is a chronic office seeker; has no political standing in any other character. It is not a human possibility to show where he has a single qualification for the office of governor beyond his ability of making a pleasing host at the governor's ball. The governorship calls for a man of practical business ability. The republicans have nominated such a man. There is only one possibility of encompassing his defeat, and that is through the political trading of the progressives and democrats, such as is known to have been proposed. It does not seem possible that the voters of the state can be willing to lend their assistance to such an underhanded scheme.—Republican Champion.

The Chicago News says one High school girl's mother, addressing the school management committee of the board of education last week, unconsciously summarized one of the principal weaknesses of school fraternities and sororities: "Once a sorority girl always a sorority girl," said this mother. Her daughter, it seems, had taken a life pledge and was unable to withdraw from the secret organization to which she had committed herself. The mother accordingly asked that the board's rule against secret societies be waived in this case. Presumably it was expected that similar action would be taken in the cases of at least forty other girls in the same High school who according to this mother are in a situation like that of her daughter. It is astonishing that parents will permit their children to tie themselves up for life by solemn pledge to associates chosen when the judgment is immature and caprice and impulse are not yet under firm control. A wise selection of companions is one of the most important things that young people learn in the homes of their parents and at school. To close this circle of associates absolutely and finally, so far as they are able to do it, at the age of fourteen or fifteen, is an act of folly from which children should be protected by their parents and the school authorities.

The New York Sun says that the school bath is unsurpassed in its influence upon the physical and psychic development of the child has been slowly filtering into the minds of those who hold the purse strings of the people. Among educators the able superintendent of the public schools of this city stands foremost in the advocacy of school baths. Judging from the absence of any appropriation for this purpose (the money being "stolen" from the recreation fund at present) the school bath has hitherto not been estimated at its true value in stimulating civic virtue. Lest the latter claim be regarded as visionary, the following facts may be mentioned: John Wesley's "Cleanliness is next to godliness" is founded on the fact that water has been a part of religious ceremonies from time immemorial. And today water is so applied by the Jew, the Mohammedan and in various ceremonial forms by all the Christian sects. Many wise men have reiterated this idea quoted by John Wesley from the Talmud. Baron Von Liebig, for instance, wrote "Soap is the great civilizer." And Dr. Maxwell has well expressed it pithily by his slogan, "Baths before libraries."

The Chicago News remarks that the Balkan coalition has demanded and is now endeavoring to obtain by force of arms autonomy for Macedonia, Old Serbia, Epirus, Albania and the province of Adrianople, sad remnants of ancient Christian states that were overwhelmed by the Turkish invasion of Europe in the fifteenth century. These parts of Turkey in Europe are chiefly inhabited by Christians of the same races as the peoples of Bulgaria, Serbia, Montenegro and Greece. Turkey has chosen war rather than submit to further peaceable disintegration of the Ottoman empire. So its armies are confronting the allies and hostilities are under way in various places. Turkey's former war minister, Mahmoud Shekret Pasha, is in chief command of that nation's forces. The commander-in-chief of the allied armies is King Ferdinand of Bulgaria, with Gen. Savoff, former war minister of Bulgaria, commanding the Bulgarian forces in the field.

TO A LONDON SUFFRAGETTE.

Oh, militant miss, when you tell us
Your scorn for political tricks
You also unkindly compel us
To dodge a few volleys of bricks;
And we think we should have your permission,
Considering what we endure,
To remark, from a sheltered position,
That the logic is slightly obscure.

When we see a big boulder go sailing Straight through a glass window near by;
When policemen use threats unavailing
And quail 'neath the glance of your eye;

When life that was moving so sweetly
Seems turned to a dynamite plot,
We know you've proved something completely,

But we can't clearly figure out what.
—Washington Star.

PRESIDENT TAFT AND THE PURE FOOD LAWS

Charles D. Hilles, chairman of the republican national committee, has issued the following statement:

Opponents of President Taft's administration and of his reelection have issued a pamphlet containing an attack upon the administration of the federal health laws.

This is a subject of such direct vital interest to the American people that I deem it due to them to make explicit and special denial of the charges set forth.

President Taft during his entire administration, has displayed the keenest interest in the proper enforcement of existing Federal Health laws. He has not been content with this but has recommended to Congress comprehensive legislation providing for a bureau of public health under which all the activities of the Federal Government relating to that subject might be grouped. On December 6, 1909, in his message to Congress, the President said:

"For a very considerable period of movement has been gathering strength, especially among the members of the medical profession, in favor of a concentration of the instruments of the national government which have to do with the promotion of public health. In the nature of things the medical department of the navy must be kept separate, but there seems to be no reason why all of the other bureaus and offices in the general government which have to do with the public health, or subject matter thereto, should not be united in a bureau to be called 'The Bureau of Public Health.'"

The President's recommendation did not result in the passage of legislation, by Congress and a year later, on December 7, 1910, in his message, the President said:

"In my message of last year I recommended the creation of a bureau of health in which should be embraced all those governmental agencies outside of the war and navy department which are now directed toward the preservation of public health or exercise functions germane to that subject. I renew this recommendation, greatly regret that the legislation in favor of this bureau has not been passed. It is a bureau which is a counter-attraction against its creation, on the ground that the establishment of such a bureau is to be in the interest of a particular school of medicine. I seem to me that this assumption is wholly unwarranted and that those responsible for the government can be trusted to secure in the personnel of the bureau the appointment of representatives of all recognized schools of medicine and in the management of the bureau entire freedom from narrow prejudice in this regard."

On May 29, 1911, the supreme court of the United States held that the Pure Food Act did not cover the knowingly false labeling of nostrums as to curative effect of physiological action. Less than a month later President Taft sent a ringing message to Congress demanding an amendment to the law which would make it possible to punish unscrupulous persons who ship in interstate commerce medicine

Women of Royal Blood as Nurses In the War In the Balkans.

Queen Milena of Montenegro and Princess Alice of Greece have announced their intention of going to the front with a corps of nurses in the war of the allied Balkan states with Turkey. Princess Alice is the wife of Prince Andrew, third son of King George. She is styled the "princess princess in Europe." She was the Princess Victoria Alice of Hattenburg and is a cousin of Victoria Ena, queen of Spain. She was married to Prince Andrew in 1903 and is the mother of three little girls.

is composed of substances possessing only slight physiological action and held out to the people as cures for diseases which in the present state of science are recognized as incurable in the course of this message the President said:

"Your attention is respectfully called to the necessity of passing at this session an amendment to the food and drugs act on June 30, 1906, (34 Stat. 668) which will supplement existing laws and prevent the shipment of interstate and foreign commerce and the manufacture and sale within the territories and the District of Columbia of worthless nostrums, labeled with the misstatements of facts as to their physiological action—misstatements false and misleading even in the knowledge of those who make them."

"The supreme court has held in a recent decision in United States v. O. A. Johnson, Opinion May 29, 1911, that the Food and Drug Act does not cover the knowingly false labeling of nostrums as to the curative effect of physiological action, and that inquiry under this statutory statute does not, in terms in any case extend to the sufficiency of medicines to work the cures claimed for them on the labels. It follows that without fear of punishment under the law unscrupulous persons knowing the medicines to have no curative or remedial value for the diseases for which they indicate them, may ship in the interstate commerce medicines composed of substances possessing only slight physiological action and labeled as cures for diseases which in the present state of science are recognized as incurable or diseases which in the present logical action and labeled as cures for diseases."

"An evil which menaces the general health of the people strikes at the life of the nation. In my opinion the sale of dangerously adulterated drugs, or the sale of drugs under knowingly false claims as to their effect in disease constitutes such an evil and warrants me in calling the matter to the attention of Congress."

"Fraudulent misrepresentations of the curative value of nostrums not only operate to defraud purchasers, but are a distinct menace to the public health. There are none so credulous as sufferers from disease. The need is urgent for legislation which will prevent the raising of false hopes of speedy cures of serious ailments by misstatements of facts as to worthless mixtures on which they rely while their diseases progress unchecked."

On August 23, 1912, Congress read the message of the President and passed an amendment which cures the defect in the law pointed out by the supreme court.

The Food and Drug Act has been vigorously and effectively enforced from the beginning. The act became effective January 1, 1907, and from that date over four thousand cases have been transmitted to the department of justice for action. In practically all concluded criminal cases convictions have been secured. In several cases decrees of condemnation and forfeiture have uniformly resulted. The number of cases referred to the Department of Justice has been increasing from year to year. During the year ending June 30, 1912, between fourteen and fifteen hundred cases were referred to the department.

Recently the republican administration, by executive order has prohibited the importation into the manufacture, in the United States of substances on the ground that it is dangerous to the health of the people of the United States.

The meat inspection law has been vigorously enforced under the administration of President Taft. All packing houses in the country have been put in proper sanitary condition and the mark, "U. S. Inspected and Passed" has been made a guaranty of the fitness for food of any meat upon which appears. An army of inspectors watch the work going on in the slaughter houses and in the packing houses and every violation of the law discovered by these inspectors is made the basis of prosecution. During the administration of President Taft 168 defendants have been convicted of violations of the meat inspection law thousands of dollars have been collected in fines, and in some cases jail sentences have been imposed.

So complete and thorough is the enforcement of this law that during the last session of Congress a democratic committee of the House of Representatives after hearing libelous denunciations of the administration, employed a special investigator of its own, who unknown to the officers administering the law, investigated conditions and found them perfect. Although the officers who were under investigation were not permitted to be heard, or to offer any evidence, the hostile democratic committee were unable to find any act or condition upon which a criticism might be hung, and no report was made.

MAYORALTY TIMBER.
Candidates Who Would Like to Head the Ticket at the Municipal Election.

With all the activity of the presidential campaign the coming city election has not been entirely side-tracked and the local politicians are not resting by the wayside. Now that the Bull Mooseers are to give their attention to the municipal election it makes it decidedly more interesting and it is understood there will be plenty of candidates in the field for the council.

The democrats and republicans both say they will present the very best men they can find to battle against the progressives. Dr. John H. Neal is on the inside at present for the republican nomination and Mayor Badger, if he wants to make it a third term, can have the nomination. If he declines the party will talk it up with Dr. W. O. Jenkins and Fred E. Hasty, a present member of the board of public works. The Bull Mooseers will not have to hunt night and day for a mayoralty candidate as there are several in the infant party that would like the honor. At present the honors are about even between Major David Urich, Horace P. Montgomery, Edward B. Prime, O. L. Frisbee and Ernest J. Holmes.

BENOIT SAYS
CARUSO WAS PRESENT AT RIOT

Policeman Marshall Says Defendant Stood Behind Benoit Just Before Shooting.

Salem, October 25.—Joseph Caruso defendant with Joseph J. Eltor and Arturo Giovannitti on trial for the murder of Anna Lopizzo, victim of the Lawrence textile strike riots, was declared by witnesses today to have been present when policeman Benoit was stabbed and the Lopizzo woman shot on the evening of January 20 last.

Edward Marshall a policeman who was with Benoit on that night, testified that Caruso accompanied by Salvatore Scuito, a fugitive, stood directly behind Benoit immediately before the shooting and stabbing. Benoit himself testified that he had seen Caruso armed with a club a few minutes before he received the knife wound.

Policeman Marshall described the two men who had been standing behind Benoit and said that one was Scuito and the other in his opinion, Caruso. J. H. Sisk, counsel for Caruso, demanded that the witnesses either fully identify or refuse to identify the defendant. "Is he the man you saw there?" he asked, pointing to Caruso in the prisoners' cage.

"In my opinion, yes," Marshall answered.

Officer Benoit when cross examined said that he and officer Marshall who had been left alone at Garden and Union streets, were endangered. He admitted that he feared for his life. "What was there to be afraid of?" asked attorney Sisk.

"The mob was all around us," said Benoit.

"Officer Marshall had just told me to look out and had turned me around when I felt a blow in the back. Then I saw a flash and seemed to feel heat. I heard a report of a revolver also and just at that moment I saw a woman on the opposite side of the street fall."

Asked about his recognizing Caruso among the strikers that night, Benoit said: "Caruso was one of the men at the head of the crowd which rushed upon us. He was one of the men who approached me just before I was stabbed and before the shooting."

Just before adjournment Eugene Benicor, a brother of Detective Benicor, corroborated the latter's testimony relating to the speech made to the strikers by Giovannitti advising them to prove like wild animals a midnight for the blood of the scabs.

PEOPLE'S OPINIONS

Col. Bartlett Propounds a Hard One. Editor The Herald—Are the words "Progressive" and "Reactionary" substitutes for the words "right" and "wrong"? Or, are we to consider the words "progressive" and "reactionary" improvements upon the old words "right" and "wrong"? If they mean the same thing, what is the purpose of these new words? Why not stick to the words our mothers taught us? I should prefer to let my conscience determine my duty in accordance with the old ideas of right and wrong, if I can be allowed to do so, or has there been some edict by which the words "right" and "wrong" are to be discarded and thrown in the waste basket? Are we, and all our fathers and forefathers who have tried to sail by the chart of right and wrong, to be put under the ban?

Or does the word "progressive" simply mean something new? If a thing is right, should we progress away from it, and if we have progressed away from right into new nostrums, are we to still go ahead farther and farther from right, or should we turn and go back to the right principles? I suppose if our conscience told us we had progressed in certain lines too far, we would be called reactionaries if we heroically and manfully turned and went back to things which are right, from which we had departed. For myself, I am not prepared to admit that the new word "progressive" is any better standard to test my actions by than the old word "right," which may be homely and out of date.

JOHN H. BARTLETT,
Portsmouth, N. H., Oct. 26, 1912.

The President's Visit.

Mr. Editor—You deserve to be thanked for the excellent report of President Taft's visit, promptly put to press. Inasmuch as the event is of signal importance in the history of Portsmouth, it is gratifying to note how accurate your report is, and how trustworthy it proves to be for the searcher who shall turn to it, many years hence.

What should be specially recorded is mention of the admirable manner in which the president avoided all political subjects, and here himself with dignity, meeting the office, as a visitor to meet all the people. I heard him speak at the navy yard, at the Sparhawk house and on the playgrounds. One was struck with the hearty sympathy he had for every one—boys and girls as well as the elders. In each instance, at the close of his impromptu remarks, the president said, in a cheery tone: "Good-bye." The words were uttered with a ring of sincerity that those who were present will never forget. They conveyed the impression that the president was full of kindly feeling toward each and every one and wished them well.

Was not President Taft the first president of the United States who has ever set foot on the Portsmouth navy yard? Did President Pierce visit the yard? Why cannot L. W. H. enlighten us on this subject? OBSERVER.

REBELS TAKEN PRISONERS ARE BEING SHOT DOWN

VERA CRUZ, Mex., Oct. 25.—Two of the captured officers of the staff of Felix Diaz, were shot by the Federal troops at 10:30 last night, after being sentenced to death by summary court-martial. The execution was carried out with secrecy. Their names were Maj. Zarate and Maj. Cuesta.

The court-martial began its session at 5 p. m. and its judgment must be delivered and the verdict put into effect within 72 hours from the time of the meeting.

Maj. Fernando Zarate and Maj. Julian Villas are pleading in behalf of Diaz, who according to military law, is liable to imprisonment for a term of three to eight years.

Public opinion against Diaz, however, is so strong that it is thought a sentence of death may be pronounced on him as well as on all the officers and Government officials who joined in last day of the trial.

It was decided this morning that the jury arrived at its verdict or first degree murder after only three formal ballots. At no time during the eight hours' deliberation was there question of Becker's guilt—the only matter of debate being as to whether the verdict should be for first degree murder meaning death to the prisoner, or second degree murder, which is punishable by life imprisonment. It was said that the first ballot showed eight of the jurors for conviction in the first degree, while on the second ballot all but one of the twelve were agreed. The final ballot, taken shortly before midnight, was unanimous for a verdict of first degree murder.

One of the first places in which news of the verdict was taken was the West side Prison, where are quartered the informers, Jack Rose, Sam Schepps, "Bridge" Webber and Harry Vallon. The four apparently expected a disagreement, however, for they were all asleep with the exception of Schepps. He was at first suspicious when told that a first degree verdict had been returned.

THE NEWSPAPER LAW

Goes Back to Olden Days in English Laws

That the newspaper publicity law, blindly enacted at the last session of Congress, will if sustained leave up on the statute book practically the law enacted under Charles II, of England for the regulation of the press of England in that remote age, was the declaration made here today by Louis Wiley, president of the Daily Newspaper Club and business manager of the New York Times.

He addressed the Washington Advertisement at the Ebbitt House on the subject of "The Daily Newspaper Of the publicity law he said:

"If this provision of the appropriation bill is permitted to remain upon the statute books of the United States, and if the supreme court of the United States in its wisdom shall follow precedent and declare that the power of congress over the postoffice department is plenary, absolute and exclusive, and that those are not words of limitation subject to judicial interpretation as allied to enactments of congress relating to the postoffice department then and in that and in that case it is but a short step for congress to empower United States marshals, backed by a corps of accountants to invade the offices of newspapers, magazines, periodicals and other publications to determine upon investigation of the books and the accounts on file in those offices whether or not the statements made are true and that no perjury has been committed.

"When that is done and this system of domiciliary visitation is authorized, we will have upon our statute books practically the law of the second year of Charles II, in 1662."

BATTLESHIPS LAID UP

Two powerful battleships of the Atlantic fleet are temporarily out of commission as a result of the recent naval review in New York harbor. The Connecticut, flagship of Rear Admiral Osterhaus commander in chief of the fleet is in a dock in the New York navy yard with a cracked tailshaft, and Admiral Osterhaus's flag will probably be transferred to the new dreadnought Wyoming, which has just been completed. The battleship Nebraska, the other battleship laid up for repairs, is docked at the Boston yard to receive a new crankpin. Both vessels will rejoin the fleet in the immediate future.

Navy Builds Hydro-aeroplanes

Naval constructors have just completed a new hydro-aeroplane of distinctive design, which will be given its initial test within the next day or two on the Potomac river. The craft was built at the Washington navy yard and reinforced leather enters largely into its construction. It is said. As soon as it has demonstrated its availability the machine will be shipped to the naval aviation corps at Annapolis. The signal corps of the army also is interested in the hydro-aeroplanes or flying boats. In consequence Lieutenants Joseph D. Hark, Lewis Godier, Jr. and L. L. Breerton of the signal corps have been ordered to Hammondsport, N. Y., to receive instructions in flying the heavier than air machines.

RELIGIOUS ASPECTS OF THE PROGRESSIVE MOVEMENT.

At the service in the North Church on Sunday evening at half past seven o'clock the pastor will speak on "The Principles of Progress," considering some of its religious aspects.

It is the interesting feature of the present political campaign that in their platforms and public addresses the two older parties claim consideration as progressive. A new party has appropriated the significant name "Progressive." A fourth party claims that the progressive movement must logically lead to acceptance of the socialist position.

Certainly no issue before the country is more important than that of "progressivism." And since it is claimed to be a vital part of the creed of all the parties this subject may be considered apart from partisan bias. All persons interested are invited to attend the service.

MARKING THE GRAVES OF TITANIC HEROES

HALIFAX, N. S., Oct. 25.—The graves of the victims of the Titanic disaster who were buried in Halifax cemeteries are being individually marked in connection with a plan of memorial arrangement. Several memorial monuments have been contracted for by the White Star Line, the owner of the Titanic, and will be erected beside the graves.

Halifax cemeteries contain the remains of 150 victims of the Titanic tragedy. The bodies, with others which were identified and claimed, together with those which were dropped back into the sea, were recovered by searching steamers within a week of two after the accident of April 15 last. Most of the remains are those of men. One is that of a child. Many of the remains are still unidentified, but there have been occasional identifications even within a few months, and further identifications are considered likely.

Inquiries regarding bodies and their effects continue to pour into this city from relatives and friends of victims not definitely accounted for. Deputy Provisional Sec. Mathers handles the correspondence, which is bulky. Several identifications have resulted from these letters, and correspondence now under way promises to identify one or two additional bodies.

There are 121 bodies in Fairhaven Cemetery, 19 in Mt. Olivet Cemetery and 10 in the Hebrew Cemetery. The bodies were disposed of in such a way as the religion of each was indicated by the effects. Many of the bodies in without such indications, and these are grouped, as are those of each religion.

Large Plots Occupied by Graves.

The White Star Line, within a short time of the disaster, secured large plots in each of the cemeteries. The plots have been set apart from the rest of the cemeteries by concrete walls. Within these walls the graves extend in two of three lines, backed by copings.

The memorial markers, not all of which are yet in place, give the name of the victim and the date of the disaster, where the remains have been identified. In case of unidentified bodies the marker contains a number, by which the body is known until it is identified, when the name is inscribed in a space left for that purpose.

There are two graves apart from the rest in Fairview Cemetery. One of these contains the remains of Mr. Harrison, a White Star Line official who was aboard the Titanic. The other is that of the baby whose body was picked up by the steamship Mackay-Bennett and was interred at the expense of the crew of that ship. Flowers are placed on the little grave at regular intervals by members of the crew.

J. Bruce Ismay, director of the White Star Company, and himself a survivor of the Titanic disaster, has ordered large gravestones for the graves of Mr. Harrison and of Ernest Freeman, who was head deck steward on the fated liner. The stone on the Freeman grave will be inscribed "This stone is erected by Mr. Bruce Ismay, director of the White Star Company, in memory of Ernest Freeman's long service and noble, heroic self-sacrifice."

SECRETARY MEYER BACK TO WORK

Secretary Meyer back at his post after an absence of several weeks expressed himself as highly pleased with the recent fleet mobilization at New York and said he thought there should be such a review every year, so that the public might know that the navy was kept up to standard in efficiency, with a yearly increase in numerical strength. The secretary accepted an invitation to attend the dinner in New York next Wednesday night following the launching here of the new battleship New York. He will speak at the banquet, which will be given by the employees of the New York navy yard.

Belated Honor to Musician

Although his heroism was not recognized officially for a decade, secretary Simpson has awarded a silver medal of honor to Musician George W. Carner of the fourth Infantry, for rescuing private Alexander Hewison from drowning in the Barac river, Philippines, eleven years ago.

CAPT. HOWARD FRISBEE

The funeral of Captain Howard Frisbee, who died in Boston, on Wednesday, at the age of 64 years, was held at noon Friday at Kiltory Point. The body arrived on the 10.00 train and was taken to the Congregational Church where Rev. I. J. Merry the pastor read the service. Interment was in his family plot, under the direction of O. W. Ham.

MOVING PICTURE MAN HAS STRENUOUS TIME

Followers of the moving pictures and especially of the Pathe's Weekly, on Wednesday during the President's visit got an idea of how the pictures seen in the weekly are secured.

The operator of the camera her was Arthur Ponelson, one of the best operators in the business.

He has been with the Pathe people for nine years and in that time has been practically all over the world. He was five years across the water, and in that time was everywhere from Siberia to the African jungles. He was at the great celebration in India and photographed the King and Queen of England on their visit there. As a matter of fact he has photographed all of the crowned heads of Europe.

In this country now his work is confined to the weekly, and he is one of three men who cover all East of the Mississippi river.

Tuesday of this week he came from Chicago with Ex-President Roosevelt. He landed in New York that evening and was ordered to this city to take President Taft. He left here at five o'clock for Chicago. Such as the strenuous life of a camera operator for the Pathe's weekly.

The pictures he took will appear in about a week's time.

USE OF AIR GUNS

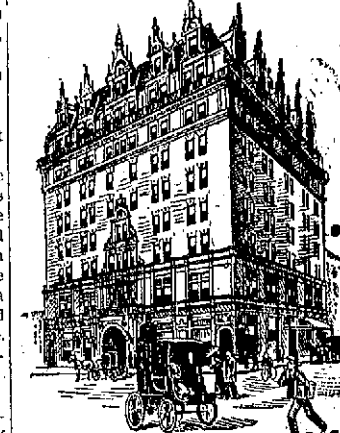

Chairman Wentworth Says Legislature May Strictly Regulate

Concord, October, 24.—Nathaniel Wentworth chairman of the fish and game commissioners, as authority for the statement that the incoming legislature will be asked to make stringent regulations regarding the use of air guns. This action is made necessary Mr. Wentworth claims by reason of the fact that the air guns are now made of such high power that considerable damage can be done small game and painful injuries inflicted to the larger game and upon human beings if they should happen within range of this old time dangerous toy.

The commissioner particularly objects to the promiscuous killing of gray squirrels by boys and states that the numerous complaints of the killing of this species of game will not be dropped but rather prosecuted with the greatest vigor by the board.

MUST NOT SINK BELOW 100 FEET

New rules for the operation of submarines have been issued by the secretary of the navy, Beckman Withrop, because of the frequent accident to foreign submarines, it has been decided that the safe depth to which a submarine can be submerged is one hundred feet, and although a record of more than two hundred feet has been established by submarine 101 on the west coast the secretary of the navy has decided to restrict their diving depths. The rules say:

"No submarines shall exercise sinky without leaving a full knowledge of her proposed movements so that she can be followed if necessary. When submarines are exercising the maneuvering boat shall be accompanied by a tender or launch, and when exercising with an inexperienced personnel the work of submarines shall be conducted in comparatively shallow water. They shall not be exercised at greater depths than actually needed in time of war, and under no circumstances will boats of class A be allowed to be submerged more than sixty feet nor boats of the B class to a depth of more than one hundred feet.

You Can Have It Free and Be Strong and Vigorous.

I have in my possession a prescription for nervous debility, lack of vigor, weakened manhood, failing memory and lame back, brought on by excesses, unnatural drains or the follies of youth, that has cured so many worn and nervous men right in their own homes—without any additional help or medicine—that I think every man who wishes to regain his manly power and virility, quickly and quietly should have a copy. So I have determined to send a copy of the prescription free of charge, in a plain, ordinary sealed envelope to any man who will write me for it.

This prescription comes from a physician who has made a special study of men and I am convinced it is the surest acting combination for the cure of deficient manhood and vigor failure ever put together.

I think I owe it to my fellow man to send them a copy in confidence so that any man anywhere who is weak and discouraged with repeated failures may stop dragging himself with harmful patent medicines secure what I believe is the quickest-acting, restorative, upbuilding, Spot-Touching remedy ever devised, and so cure himself at home quietly and quickly. Just drop me a line like this: Dr. A. E. Robinson, 4724 Luck Building, Detroit, Mich. and I will send you a copy of this splendid recipe in a plain ordinary envelope free of charge. A great many doctors would charge $3.00 to $5.00 for merely writing out a prescription like this—so I send it entirely free.

Why New York Woman Is Done with the Famous Society with the Long Name.

"I'm never going to have anything more to do with the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals," declared a Brooklyn woman, indignantly. "I've had one affair with them. It happened when a cat in our neighborhood gave birth to five kittens and then deserted them. None of us wanted the kittens so, as I have a phone in my house, it was suggested that I get the S. P. C. A. to come and take them away. I telephoned—and such a lot of questions as they asked!

"They wanted to know my name and the number of my house; the number of kittens in the litter, and their gender and color and breed; the day of their birth and the number of days since their mother went away from them. Of course, these questions were tantalizing, because I couldn't see what difference it made. I thought all they had to do was to send a man up and take the kittens away. Then they asked me if I was married, and how many children I had; how many neighbors were complaining of the kittens and if these neighbors were old maids. I thought they were very persistent in their questions. But I answered them all. Finally came a question that made me mad. 'What is the name of the cat that deserted these kittens?' was asked.

"I'm sure I don't know," I replied; she is no relation of mine, and with that I banged the receiver on the hook. And after all we had to pay a small pop to take those kittens away and drown them."

WHEN MICROBES ARE BUSIEST

Although Never Dormant, It Has Been Proved They Have Special Hours of Activity.

A celebrated scientist has made the interesting announcement that there are more microbes in the air at nine o'clock in the morning and at nine o'clock at night than during any other periods of the day. He has also discovered that the percentage of microbes in the atmosphere is less at three o'clock in the morning and three o'clock in the afternoon than at any other times. The explanation advanced for the partiality of the microbes for nine o'clock a. m. and p. m. is that the "microbe hour" is controlled by the movements of people. From five to nine in the morning they are going from their homes to their working places, and from five to nine in the evening they are again journeying through the streets, either toward bound or in search of pleasure.

He noted that at or about six o'clock every morning and evening there were indications of the approach of the microbe "rush" hour. From that time on until nine o'clock the atmosphere became more and more crowded with germs of all kinds, some bad, some good; and then, immediately after nine o'clock the tide began to ebb, until it was always lowest round about three o'clock. According to his researches after lunch is the safest time for a nap.

Answered to the Name.

The two friends had been dining on beers and sundry strange dishes at the "Cedars of Lebanon" cafe, in the Syrian quarter of New York. They were drinking their coffee, thick with coal-black grounds, and wondering whether they really enjoyed it, when Smithers suddenly cried out:

"Patag! Patag!"

The waiter hurried away, and came back presently bringing an ordinary corkscrew.

"I was just testing," said Smithers to his companion, "the truth of the story that the first corkscrew seen in Beirut was taken there by a Yankee. It was a patented American contraption, and the Syrians were amazed at its convenience. They spelled out on it the mystic words, 'Pat. Aug. 16, '75,' and took that to be the name of the implement. Now I believe the story that 'patag' is its name all over the Levant."

ANYTHING TO SAVE THE HAT

Lucinda Forced to Smile at Antics of Men Caught in Rain With New Straw Headgear.

"I have nothing to say against men," said Lucinda, "but really it makes me smile to see them in the straw hat season when a shower comes. At such a time you may see a woman in all her finery keeping calmly on her way quite unmuffled, while men are darting into open doorways or starting to run, all to protect their precious straw hats from a few drops of rain. And what funny things they do besides!

"Plenty of men when the sprinkle begins take off their hat and carry it sort of carelessly down at their sides, as if they had taken it off just to cool their fevered brow, don't you know, to make themselves more comfortable; but really so that less of the hat's surface may be exposed to the rain. And then you may see a man carrying his hat so tilted that the rain will fall on the under side of the brim and not on the top and crown.

"You may see some men take off their hat and put it quite frankly under their coat and hold that over it to keep it dry, while the number of men who open out a newspaper and hold that over their bright straw hat is not small.

"The man who holds a newspaper over his hat tries usually to do this with a careless air, as if he didn't care much about it, but thought he might as well give his hat some protection. But sometimes you see a man wrestling with a newspaper desperately.

"Here, for instance, was a man who had been standing in a doorway waiting for a car, and who when he saw his car coming, clasped a newspaper over his hat and ran out into the rain. Heavy business this was, for he had to hold that newspaper on with one hand while he grabbed for the handhold on the side of the car with the other. And after all I know he must have found that his hat had been ruined when he got aboard.

"But here was another man, who with the aid of a newspaper was keeping his hat absolutely dry. He had carefully and completely wrapped his hat up in a newspaper, and nowhere he was with his hat so wrapped around his arm, walking bareheaded down Broadway!

"Really, it does make me smile when I see what men do with their hats when a shower comes."—New York Times.

Economical Anyway.

J. Willis Westlake, the noted Florida pomologist, said in a recent address at Lake Helen: "The orange grower must be an optimist to succeed. He can't expect ten thousand oranges from every tree at the start. He should show the spirit of John Hancock. Blanco's first orange crop, when he settled in Florida, wasn't much to boast of. The man, however, kept on heart. 'How did your oranges do?' a friend asked him at the season's end. 'Oh, we had a few,' he replied. 'Good ones?' 'Fine!' said Blanco. 'My wife uses them in place of lemons. It makes quite a saving.'"

New Kind of Stamps.

Never had there been such a commotion in the little home, and the most wildly excited person was the sister of the young mother who had just presented twins to her husband. Off she rushed to the postoffice for stamps to spread the great tidings abroad.

"Stamps, please," she said, as she flung down her money.

"How many, miss?" asked the clerk.

"Two," she cried joyfully.

"What kind?"

"A boy and a girl."

EXETER LETTER

Judge Henry A. Shute, the well known author, has taken an active interest in the no-license question which is to be put before the voters at the election, Nov. 5, and this evening is to hold an informal meeting at his office for those who are interested in the question. He has publicly stated his stand taken in the matter by some forceful and straightforward arguments.

He says: "No one who ever did live here in the 80's and early 90's can for one moment imagine the town as it was then. I do not believe that a single decent citizen would be willing to live here were the streets changed to the condition of those days. The improvement was accomplished at the expense of a long and bitter fight, and was not assured until public sentiment was awakened in favor of a clean town. This we have had for years—the cleanest large town in the state."

"I do not believe any good reason has been advanced for license in this town. But should any one of these reasons be good I do not believe we should tolerate saloons. I believe it is in the saloons that the young fellows learn to drink, and I have my experience of nearly thirty years ago in the police court to justify this belief. Again we have now a very large foreign population, to which we owe a duty, and that duty is not to place before them the open opportunity to indulge in what is to many of them a fatal measure."

"This is the year of the national and state election. I am interested in the election of certain candidates. But I believe that the question of license or no-license is of far greater importance to this town and the citizens than any other question of policy, politics or candidates now before the people."

Exeter has now been without a license for many years. And the nearest town which has one is Newmarket. Newmarket, which was easy of access to Exeter inhabitants two years ago, passed into the dry column. In the heat of the political contests many are overlooking the license question in this, as well as some of the smaller towns.

That Dover is profiting by the loss of the Exeter and Portsmouth street railway seems apparent, as another special train will be run to that city from here next Wednesday evening, stopping at Newmarket, Newmarket, Durham and Madbury both ways, to accommodate the thousands who wish to see the performance of the Aborn English Grand Opera company which will be heard in that city.

The members of the Christian fraternity of the Phillips Exeter academy, of which Clifford B. Herd of Pasadena, Cal., is president, will conduct the services at the West End hall Sunday afternoon.

The First Parish Men's Club will meet Monday evening for the first gathering of the season, and it will be made interesting from the fact that former Attorney General Edwin G. Eastman will speak on the twelve proposed amendments.

A reception will be tendered the Rev. Herman Loghman, pastor of the Kensington Congregational church, Monday evening. Mr. Loghman preached his first sermon there Oct. 6, having come to that town from Hartford, Ct. He succeeded the Rev. D. J. H. Shaw, who has gone to Scarborough, Me.

Fred H. Currier, who injured his eye while at work on Pilgrimage field recently, is being treated at a Boston infirmary.

The parish supper of the Unitarian society was held at the church vestry Thursday evening, about 125 being fed. A social hour followed the supper, during which time the young people devoted to dancing. The affair was arranged by the gentlemen of the society, Prof. Harry E. Walker, principal of the Tuck High school, being the chairman of the committee. The young men served as waiters.

Mrs. George P. Kimball entertained a party of her friends by a session of whist at her home Thursday evening and this party was also preceded by another one on the evening previous. On the first evening there were twenty guests, and on the second sixteen, making a total of thirty-six.

Forrest Edwin Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Robinson, was recently ordained at the Mount Washington Baptist church in Haverhill, Mass., and will assume a pastorate at Mayfield, Me. The prayer of ordination was offered by the Rev. Ansley E. Woodsum of Exeter, and the Rev. Robert L. Webb presided. The Rev. William E. Lombard read the minutes. The charge to the candidate was by the Rev. Silas L. Morse, and the right hand of fellowship was given by the Rev. Frederick R. Grant. Mr. Robinson is well known in Exeter, where he has many friends. He is a graduate from the Gordon training school of Boston and will continue his studies at Colby college, which is near his pastorate.

ITEMS OF INTEREST TO NAVY YARD EMPLOYEES

Prisoners Released

A chief petty officer from the prison ship Southern was sent to Concord today to bring back three navy prisoners whose terms had expired.

Stragglers from the Nashville

Five stragglers from the U. S. S. Nashville, who quit the ship when last in this port, were brought here today from New York under guard from the U. S. S. Hancock. They were turned over to the commanding officer of the U. S. S. Paducah by which vessel they will be sent to the Nashville at Guantanamo.

In Trouble on River

The crew of the steam launch of the cruiser Washington had a very exciting experience on the river on Friday afternoon. The boat, with a few passengers left the Daniel street ferry landing just ahead of the ferry 132 at 4.45 o'clock and when off the bacon two boiler tubes blew out. Captain Locke of the 132 was quick to observe the trouble of the small boat and was on his way to the crew before the distress signals were given. The 132 towed the launch to the yard. The fireman was slightly scalded on the hands and feet.

The New Hampshire has sailed from Norfolk for Rockland, the Brutus from Key West, for Guantanamo, the Hartford from Annapolis for Norfolk and the Dahlgren and Stockton from Norfolk for Charleston.

Says Whipping Was Deserved.

A civilian at Portsmouth, N. H., sent a letter to the secretary of the navy, alleging that Naval Constr. Guy A. Blissett, U. S. N., had ordered a sailor attached to the Eagle to brutally whip a dog. An investigation showed that the dog had received a well deserved chastisement for snapping at and biting several persons at the navy yard, and he was whipped in order to break him of the habit. It was thought best to give the dog a chance by whipping him rather than killing him.—Army and Navy Journal.

Shaft Was Cracked.

In removing the propellers of the USS Connecticut Oct. 22 at the navy yard, New York, it was discovered that one of the tall shafts which joins the propeller to the main shaft had been badly cracked. An order for a new one has been placed. It cannot be delivered for almost two months.

Examinations for Marine Corps.

Examinations of candidates for civil life for appointment as second lieutenants in the U. S. marine corps will be held on or about Jan. 7, 1913, at the marine barracks, Washington, D. C., and in San Francisco, Cal. It is understood that there are approximately fifteen vacancies in the grade of second lieutenant, to which candidates who may successfully pass the required examination are eligible for appointment.

RAILROAD NOTES

Night crews have been added to the working force in the Boston and Maine repair shops at Concord and Keene.

The Bar Harbor express over the Portland division leaving Boston at 10 p. m. is now equipped with government standard mail cars.

People in the northern part of New Hampshire are much interested in the reports that the Boston and Maine railroad will construct a new railroad up the Penikese river from Bristol to Ashland to connect with the White Mountain road.

A crew of civil engineers was employed most of the summer surveying the territory and it is said that their surveys have produced very favorable routes for a new road. The engineers also made surveys of the route between Franklin and Hill with a view of making a branch track. There are some bad curves on this line which it is said can be greatly eliminated by a relocation of the rails. A new route down the river from Plymouth to Concord would shorten the trip by several miles and would afford a relief from the congestion of the single track over which the trains from Montreal and double track is required from Plymouth to Concord. A line down the river valley is considered a more feasible route to double track than the present line through Lacomb, Tilton and other towns.

Reports have it that arrangements have been completed for the financing of the Mount Washington Electric railway, and the new hotel to be constructed on the summit of Mount Washington, and within a few days it is expected the stock will be offered for sale at a price about $150 per share.

The stock will be issued by the Concord and Montreal road, one of the leased lines of the Boston and Maine, a par authorization of $1,500,000 having been made by the New Hampshire Service Commission.

Regular dividends will be paid upon this stock as it is issued as an extension of the Concord and Montreal railroad, under its 31 year lease.

It has been reported that the original plan of the hotel on the summit was to be changed and a much smaller building than the previously described would be erected. It is stated on official authority however that no change in the plan is contemplated and the edifice will remain 100 rooms which is considered sufficient to accommodate the patronage during the brief summer season.

COMPLAINS OF MUDDY CROSS WALKS

Editor of the Herald:—I desire to call the attention of the public through your valuable paper to the disgraceful conditions of the crosswalks on Deer street. This morning as I came down town about train time I met a well dressed lady who had come in on the train and together we walked down Deer street as far as the Home for Aged Women, where we were able to cross the street. She informed me that she had attempted to cross the street at the two crosswalks leading from the depot, also the one at the junction of Vaughn street, but in each case was obliged to abandon it owing to the depth of the mud. This is certainly not a very good recommendation for our city and it would seem as though the street department could give a little attention to these crosswalks which are so extensively travelled, not only by strangers but by our own people. Christian Shore.

TO VISIT NAVY YARD.

Maine Congressman and Ex-Mayor Reed Go There on Monday.

The democratic city committee held a busy meeting on Friday night at the probate court room and made all arrangements for the rally on next Monday night and the reception of the speakers, Judge Calvin Page, Major Chauncey B. Hoyt and P. T. McWilliams were appointed a committee to receive the speakers on their arrival. During the day Congressman McGillicuddy of Maine, who will be the principal speaker at the rally, and Hon. Eugene E. Reed, candidate for congress, will visit the navy yard.
